

Carbon Markets | Climate Change & Business Specialist

- Help shape Australia's climate change policy and low carbon economy.
  - Work closely with industry and government leaders.
  - Highly visible and integral role - have impact and influence .

An exciting opportunity has opened up to join an influential, dynamic organisation representing business in the transition to a low carbon economy.

The Carbon Market Institute (CMI) is a membership-based not-for-profit organisation whose members include major blue-chip corporates, leading legal, finance, consulting professional service providers and the whole ecosystem of carbon project developers. The Institute facilitates sharing knowledge and connections between business, policy makers and thought leaders to drive the evolution of carbon markets and climate policy towards a significant and positive impact on climate change.

In this unique role you will have the opportunity to engage with CEOs, CFOs, Energy & Sustainability Executives and interact at the highest levels of Government. You will be exposed to leading edge knowledge on climate policy, international market developments, emissions reduction and renewable energy. With a key role in advising the Institute's members on market insights and policy developments, your work will contribute as a key part of the growth of an organisation that has impact and influence.

Working closely with the CEO, this is a role that will fast track your career.

Specifically, this position will include:

- Market research and intelligence gathering across climate change developments in Australia and internationally;
- Interpretation of the impacts of international carbon market and domestic policy developments on Australian business;
- Engagement with CMI members and key government stakeholders through working groups, company briefings, roundtables and digital communications;
- Dissemination of market insights, policy development & international carbon trading activities to CMI members and the broader market; and
- Working with the team to run the region's annual premier climate change and business event – the Australasian Emissions Reduction Summit.

We are looking to discuss this opportunity with candidates who:

- Are degree-qualified, ideally with a Masters in commerce, finance, economics, environment, engineering or sustainability;
- Have a comprehensive understanding of domestic climate policy and international carbon markets;
- Have worked in role in consulting, business or government that involved responsibility for advising on or implementing climate change actions and/or carbon market trading;
- Are analytical with strong communication skills and confident in interacting with a diverse range of senior business and government leaders;
- Are a passionate advocate for climate action and want to help business seize the opportunity in the transition that is underway; and
- Work well in a small, fun team, want to make a difference, and have an impact!

We are open to the level of professional experience and can adapt the role accordingly. If you are interested, please send your CV & cover letter to Brad Kerin at brad.kerin@carbonmarketinstitute.org by 5th February, 2018.

The Carbon Market Institute is at the centre of climate change policy and business in Australia. Independent and non-partisan, we bring business, policy makers and thought leaders together to drive the evolution of carbon markets towards a significant and positive impact on climate change.

Engaging leaders, shaping policy and driving action, we're helping business to seize opportunities in the transition to a low carbon economy
